Occupancy permits assailed

By Bill Bagby

STAFF WRITER
GRANITE CITY — More than 90 residents, some who say they'll sue if the occupancy permit ordinance passes, heard aldermen defer action on the controversial measure at Tuesday's meeting.

The standing-room-only crowd listened as the council unanimously voted to put off action on the ordinance until Jan. 20.

THE GRANITE City Board of Realtors will sue the city if the ordinance passes because the board believes it is unconstitutional, said Ray Kaegel, board president.

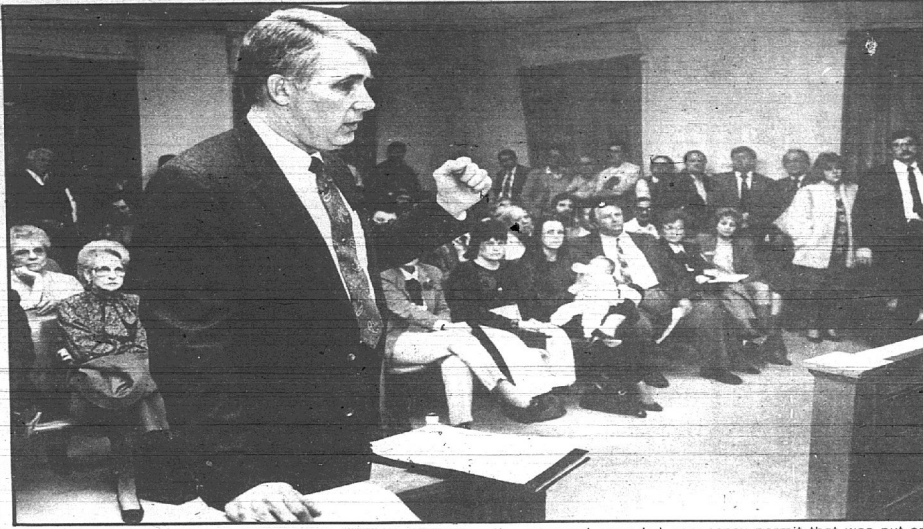

Edwardsville attorney Lawrence Taliana, representing the realtors, told the aldermen that five similar ordinances have been ruled unconstitutional.

The ordinance calls for homes and apartments to be inspected before utilities are turned on and before persons can move into the dwellings. THE CITY Taliana said would have to pay the realtors' attorney's fees if they sue and prove the ordinance is unconstitutional.

Realtor Harold Cavins said 2,191 responses were received from handouts and an advertisement in the Dec. 28 issue of the Press-Record-Journal. The information stated the ordinance was unconstitutional. Public opinion ran 2,189-2 against the ordinance, Cavins said. "This (the advertisement) was not done maliciously," he said. "We wanted to know how the people felt about the ordinance."

REALTOR John Blasingame said city officials should direct their attention to properties that need upgrading. He estimated that 95 percent of homes in the city would pass inspection. A small number of residents care about their homes, he said, but do not have funds for improvements.

About 3 percent of the property, Blasingame estimated, is owned by

REALTOR JOHN BLASINGAME, speaking for the Granite City Board of Realtors, addresses the Granite City Council Tuesday night. He voiced the realtors' opposition to landlords who don't care about the condition, while 1 percent is occupied by tenants who don't care. Blasingame said he talked to officials in Belleville, Collinsville and Edwardsville who said they were effective in keeping property standards at a high level by directing the proposed amended occupancy permit that was put on final passage and then deferred until the Jan. 19 meeting. More than 100 filled the city hall courtroom for the meeting.

against the ordinance.

American Steel not reopening

GRANITE CITY — The American Steel Foundries plant in Granite City is not reopening. Recent rumors had the plant reopening and hiring employees.

"We've had these rumors for the last four years," said Tom Majewski, assistant works manager. "I hope one of these rumors comes to pass one of these days."

Donald Hagen, employment interviewer at the Illinois Department of Employment Security in Granite City, said he received between six and 12 calls around Christmas time from people asking if the plant was reopening. "I don't know how it got started," Hagen said.

Les Morgan, of the United Steelworkers of America, said he also heard the rumors, but that they were unfounded. The plant, which once employed more than 1,600 persons, closed in May 1981.

Scout councils could unite

GRANITE CITY — Sale of the Boy Scout Council office in Granite City is planned if the Cahokia Mound and Plaza Bird councils are consolidated.

Camp Sunnen, owned by Cahokia Mound, is to remain as a long-term scouting camp. Camp Warren Lewis is to be sold, or partly sold and then used as a day camp.

An economic recession, limiting the local council's financial resources, is being cited as one of the reasons for consolidation. The proposal is to be voted upon Jan. 27. IN AN UNRELATED development, Bill Monical, Granite City, is

Plans announced for downtown shopping center

By Bill Bagby

STAFF WRITER
GRANITE CITY — A new development in the city's effort to bring a shopping center to the downtown area was announced Tuesday.

Development Control Corp. of Chicago has proposed tentative plans to construct a 150,000- to 200,000-square-foot shopping center in a two-block area bounded by Delmar Avenue, 18th, 19th, and State streets in the city's tax increment financing (TIF) district, said Alan Ortbals, economic development director. The center could create up to 300 jobs, Ortbals said.

THE SHOPPING center has the potential to recapture some of the retail sales being lost downtown to St. Louis and other areas, said Jack Piper, president of Development Co-Ordination Inc. Development Co-Ordination is affiliated with Development Control.

"Retail is the only thing that will hold downtown together," he said. "On the surface, it (the shopping center) appears to be profitable."

TIF, Piper said, would help create an environment for retail sales by providing financing for the project. "WITHOUT TIF, you couldn't get the job done," he said.

The shopping center would be comprised of an 80,000- to 90,000-square-foot discount retail store, a 50,000-square-foot super-market and 50,000-square-foot comprising 20 to 25 specialty shops, Ortbals said.

The shopping center is estimated to gross about $50 million in sales and produce $1.5 million taxes per year, Ortbals said. The center would be located in the city's tax increment financing (TIF) district.

NO COST estimate for the project was given by Ortbals who said he is scheduled to meet next week with Piper to discuss specifics of the project.

An agreement by the City Council to grant development rights could be reached by the end of the month, Ortbals said. He said city officials will negotiate with corporation representatives about the length of the rights.

After rights are granted, Ortbals said Development Control will seek tenants. City officials will prepare further market and financial analysis and get appraisal of area property so it can be purchased by the city, he said.

IT COULD take three years to complete the project, Ortbals said. "A lot of people thought we were dreaming when it came to our downtown plans," said Mayor Von Dee Cruse, "but gradually we are taking the steps that will make our dream reality."

Development Control has constructed shopping centers in the Illinois communities of Matteson, Peoria and Normal, in the Wisconsin communities of Green Bay and Wisconsin Rapids, and in Hartford, Conn.

"IT IS AN excellent firm and exactly the type of company we've been looking for," Ortbals said. "They have a reputation as a top-notch company that has excellent contacts in the retail community."

Ortbals said he first discussed the project with Piper early last month. A representative from Development Control was scheduled to be at a developers' meeting Nov. 12, Ortbals said, but could not attend.

Pressure blamed for gate failure

By Bill Milligan

STAFF WRITER
A floodgate recovered Tuesday from a pump station in Sauget shows water pressure caused the Oct. 4 flood that forced 1,200 residents to evacuate a portion of East St. Louis, said Sheng Greathouse, Metro East Sanitary District (MESD) director.

The failure caused 40 acres to flood in areas of East St. Louis and Sauget and is blamed for more than $18 million in property damage. "The pressure caused it to sag in the middle and eventually come away from its moorings," Greathouse said. "If that gate is bent, when they bring it out, you'll see."

It took workers several hours to drag the 8-ton gate down a subterranean tunnel and up 60 feet into the sunlight, said Lee Robinson, an observer with the Army Corps of Engineers.

The gate looked as though it had received a powerful kick. Three I-beams made of 1-inch-thick steel were bent and twisted where they reinforced the floodgate's center. Flashings on rollers, used to move the gate up and down along a reinforced track, were severed at the hub.

"I'm surprised it is intact as much as it is," Robinson said. "The cement walls down there are really beaten up from this thing banging up against them."

"The pressure caused it to sag in the middle and eventually come away from the moorings." — Sheng Greathouse

"You've got to remember this plant was built to handle storm water. The acids that have been coming into this facility weakened the metal of the gate. When the pressure got too great, it just snapped."

A lowered gate once operated by the East St. Louis primary treatment plant was removed last August by American Bottoms, Greathouse said last week.

"It didn't help that the secondary wall had been removed," Robinson said.

"We've (the Corps) gotten away from helping the individual districts too much," Robinson said. "There was a time in the early '70s when we just said that's it."

He said if the Corps had been operating the station, the flooding still would have occurred. A study released by the Corps last week revealed that when the river reached 39 feet, constant pumping by the MESD kept the Mississippi River from covering 21,000 acres.

The levy district faces $23 million in repairs, about $1.8 million resulting from the flood. The district's annual budget is approximately $2 million.

Granite City and East St. Louis are among several communities receiving service from the MESD.

Two lawsuits, one a class action suit and the other from an individual, have been filed in St. Clair County by East St. Louis residents. The suits, which total about $30 million, claim the MESD was (See PRESSURE, Page 8A)

Question draws record callers

By Dave Gosnell

GRANITE CITY — It seems that Granite Citizens have no doubt in their minds about what the biggest event in Granite City was in 1986. A record 23 callers responded to the question: "What do you think was the biggest event in Granite City in 1986?" The question was asked in the weekly "Tell It Like It Is" box in last week's Granite City Journal.

All of the callers said they thought the Granite City High School football Warriors' upset win over the nationally-ranked East St. Louis Flyers on Oct. 4 was the biggest event of the year.

Though limited space does not allow all the responses to be printed, today's "Tell It Like It Is" section gives three typical responses to the question.

Council OKs tavern zoning and permit

By Donna Kimbro

MADISON — Aldermen voted Dec. 30, with Robert Grieve dissenting, to approve a Zoning Board of Appeals recommendation to grant a permit to Ram Dymas of Pontoon Beach. She will operate a restaurant and tavern at 1001 Iowa St.

Grieve said she was given a liquor license before a letter was sent to residents of the area notifying them of the Zoning Board hearing.

NEIGHBORS did not want the business to open again and would have voiced their disapproval if letters about the hearing had been issued in time, Grieve said.

He contended the mayor granted the liquor license before the zoning board gave its favorable recommendation.

"There are procedures that everyone has to go through. But this one did not follow the rules, and that is why I voted against the permit," Grieve said.

COMPTROLLER Rick Tutka said Dymas managed the business known as Brandy's for Harry Hillion until the Zoning Board met.

She paid for business and liquor licenses pending the outcome of the zoning board meeting, but was not operating her own business, Tutka said, since the licenses were still in the comptroller's office until the council meeting.

Tutka said those living in the vicinity of the restaurant-tavern were notified, and Mayor John Belteroff said only one resident attended the zoning meeting and "did not object since Brandy's was already operating there."

THE MAYOR said Hillion had made the agreement with Dymas so someone would be in the building for insurance purposes until permission was granted by the city for her to operate her own business.

An area resident said Hillion moved equipment out of the building one day and the next day Dymas moved in and began operation.

The council also approved a recommendation from the Zoning Board for Phil Barnett to construct a new garage at 1016 Greenwood St.

Larry Hartman, city attorney, read a "stop order" for Anthony Divitro and Steven Moorman, who were denied a special use permit to operate an auto body shop at 1836 Sixth St. He alleged they had continued to do business at that address.

The order stated that if the business operation continues, the owners could be fined up to $500 for each city ordinance violation.

CASPER Nighohossian, former city attorney, spoke to the City Council on the proposed water line extension to the Gateway Midstate Truck Plaza area.

Since he was familiar with the initial negotiations, he was asked by the city to serve as liaison with Illinois-American Water Co. on the water line installation.

Nighohossian said the district manager is awaiting instructions from the water company board, expected in the next two weeks. When this information is received, the city can proceed with final agreements, the attorney said.

GC Junior Service fetes Christmas baby

Amber Nicole Sederes was the first baby born on Christmas Day at St. Elizabeth Medical Center and was one of the holiday infants to receive red felt stockings (bunnies) from the Granite City Junior Service Club.

The new arrival was born at 4:57 a.m. Dec. 25 and weighed 7 pounds, 4 ounces. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jerry (Lisa) Sederes of Granite City.

Grandparents include Walter Westbrook, Lynn Roberts, Sidling Sorters of Milwaukee, Wis., and the late Charles H. Sederes.

The holiday tradition of the club to present all newborns at the local hospital with a handmade stocking has been observed for over 25 years. The project is one of the ways that Junior Service helps its Granite City neighbors. President Debbie McMillian said.

Members of the social and charitable group provide eyeglasses for students in need of them in the Granite City schools, as well as meet individual needs of area families throughout the year.

Much of the money for its projects comes from the club's breakfast with Santa, held annually at the Granite City Township Hall, and other fund-raisers.

Club members furnish Thanksgiving and Christmas baskets for the area's needy.

New year is bringing new hope

The end of a year and the start of a new one provides a logical time to look back and ahead, enabling recent history to help guide future actions.

As noted in the Press-Record/Journal on Jan. 4, 1987, the past year saw Belleville Area College, Granite City School District and Metro East Sanitary District controversies, steps toward revitalizing Downtown Granite City and enlarging city boundaries, an unexpected toll of seven Quad-City Area murders, and industrial progress and problems.

Also in 1986, there were annexations doubling the size of the Village of Pontoon Beach, Tri-City Regional Port growth, Northgate Industrial Park expansion, Granite City High School football players' victory over the team ranked first nationally, and construction of a branch Granite City public library, an Interstate 270-Illinois 111 Madison County Transit District facility and an Ettecam Inc. wastewater treatment and resource recovery plant.

Regionally, Madison County recorded a record 26 murders, U.S. Rep. Mel Price won his 22nd consecutive term by a razor-thin margin, a former Madison County assessment supervisor pleaded guilty to misconduct, Sheriff Emil Toffant retired after eight years of effective service and was succeeded by Bob Churchill, Lawrence Pettit became chancellor of Southern Illinois University, SIUE men's wrestling and women's tennis teams won national titles, and Madison County voters defeated bonds to build a combined nursing home and sheltered care home.

Statewide, Gov. James Thompson won an unprecedented fourth term, defeating Adlai Stevenson after the Democratic ballot was altered by two radical candidates' surprise primary victories. Flooding caused damage in northeastern Illinois and East St. Louis, state legislators adopted insurance law changes, Granite City Steel and Caterpillar Tractor workers approved new agreements, an undercover investigation showed corruption in the Chicago government, and Chicago Mayor Harold Washington gained control of the City Council after a three-year power struggle.

Nationally and worldwide, the top-ranked story of 1986 was the space shuttle explosion, which killed the seven occupants and had a major impact in many communities, including the Quad-City Area. Also cited were secret arms sales to Iran, with some of the proceeds diverted to Nicaraguan rebels, and a Russian nuclear-fueled electric power plant explosion.

U.S. planes bombed Libya in retaliation for terrorist attacks; with the U.S. cooperating, Corazon Aquino replaced Ferdinand Marcos as the leader of the Philippines; federal income taxes were revised extensively; the U.S. stock market boomed despite soaring federal and trade deficits; and the nation stepped up efforts to curb drug abuse.

Life was too complex for all of these events to fit into neat patterns and trends, but 1987 began with widespread realization, here and elsewhere, that there are many blessings as well as imperfections.

The new year inevitably will be a new year. The specific events cannot be known in advance, but there is great hope that the cause of "peace with justice" can be advanced.

Hodge story will, should live on

The death of Orville Enoch Hodge is noteworthy because of his impact on local and Illinois history. Perhaps his career can be a constructive example of a negative — how not to serve in public office.

From humble beginnings, he became a successful businessman, was named to Madison County's assessment Board of Review, served three consecutive state legislative terms, gained election as state auditor of public accounts, and was in a position to seek re-election as auditor or election as governor in 1956.

Within weeks, newspaper disclosures showed the cancer within his administration and he went to prison rather than the executive mansion. Checks made out to persons being cashed, but many of the people said they had not received nor were they owed state funds. Estimates of the cash thefts ranged from $300,000 to $600,000 to $1,500,000 to several million dollars.

Mr. Hodge said it was a relatively small amount and he contended the state had made a substantial profit by the time it had confiscated his assets and property holdings. He never disclosed precisely who did what to help him amass his ill-fortune, but he said political ambition and overly generous instincts had created financial needs far beyond his legal income.

Is an occupancy permit legal?

The proposed occupancy permit ordinance is raising a lot of fuss.

Decisions by various courts on occupancy permits were shown to the City Council on Tuesday by an attorney representing the city's realtors. The decisions, from a layman's perspective, indicate the ordinance is on loose ground.

The decisions basically state a person cannot be penalized for refusing a warrantless search of his house.

Each case sounds much like the situation in Granite City, and a point in question is brought home clearly in Linda Currier vs. the city of Pasadena. In that case, the court ruled against an occupancy permit ordinance, stating, "The City contends, at length, that the ordinance involves only consensual entries. The argument is specious. To compel a property owner to let his property lie vacant and to prohibit him from selling it, unless he 'consents' to a warrantless search is to require an involuntary consent. The owner's basic right to use and enjoy the fruits of his property cannot be conditioned on his waiving his constitutional rights under the Fourth Amendment."

The court's ruling sounds convincing and related to Granite City's proposed ordinance, which leaves no wonder as to why many think the city's proposal ought to be shelved. But the apparent clarity of the court's decision as it relates to Granite City is a view from one side of the issue. As often occurs after a matter reaches court, clear-cut cases are not so clear cut when the full body of law comes to bear.

This is not to say the case isn't relevant to Granite City, or that the city has confided anything to prove its ordinance is on strong legal ground. In fact, when asked about the constitutionality of the proposed ordinance in light of the cases presented on behalf of the city's realtors, City Attorney Mark Goldenberg said he did not plan to argue the case in the newspaper, so we cannot ascertain how confident the city is in its position at this point.

What we do conclude is this:

- 1) Something has to be done to get people to clean up blighted property.
 - 2) Some aldermen believe an occupancy permit ordinance will expedite achieving the goal.
 - 3) The city's realtors believe the ordinance is unconstitutional and are prepared to go to court to support their contention.
- For our part, if the realtors are right, the city ought to say so now and avoid the lawsuit.

GIVE US THIS DAY OUR DAILY BREAD, BUT PLEASE CUT OUT THE MIDDLEMAN WHO TAKES THREE-FOURTHS OF ALL OUR PROFIT.

Slum tenants and tax takers blamed

To the editor: Well, the wolves are at it again: tax takers deluge. Our fine mayor and aldermen have decided that our city has slum landlords.

I wouldn't know, I've never met anyone who would buy a piece of property and then strew it with trash front and rear, tear up the walls, and break out the windows.

I would assume the people who live in the rental property may be the ones who do that. Not much has been said about the other side of the coin: "slum tenants."

Will the new home occupancy code make these people live better, cleaner, and healthier, and with more safety? I doubt it.

Will hiring three more city workers make for a safer and healthier place to live? I doubt it too.

These tax takers come at us in all different ways. This holiday season, they're trying to slip in under the "holiday spirits" as health and safety.

I believe that the aldermen already have enough laws on the books to deal with slum conditions as they now or will exist.

At the present time, I believe we have two inspectors and a safety engineer. If the aldermen and these inspectors were really concerned about the city's safety and health, wouldn't these three dudes be out and about in the alleys, forcing the proper people to clean up the mess, instead of sitting in their offices doing nothing to clean up the city?

In a city as small as Granite City, one has to wonder why we ever have a safety inspector/engineer. What could it be that checks?

We have the fire department to check fire codes, a building inspector to inspect buildings, and a city inspector to check anything else of a safety and health nature.

I have never read in the local paper where these inspectors have ever caused the arrest of anybody for "slum conditions," which brings us back to the three new personnel they want to hire under the Safety and Health Home Occupancy Code.

It has been stated that 25 percent of all people move at least once during each year. Using this as a guide, with 13,000 dwellings in Granite City this new law would rake in $10,000 to $15,000 — hardly enough to pay one tax taker, let alone three people's wages.

The bottom line is: Who will pay?

Regardless of how they write the law, the ones who least can afford to pay will pay in the end — in increased rents, etc.

I assume that is the mayor's and aldermen's idea of safety and health — make the poor pay more.

I guess it would really be a show at Kirkpatrick Homes, with the city receiving money from the Granite City Housing Board to inspect, the board collecting the rent and giving it back to the city for another inspection.

Would it not be better for the city, if the mayor and aldermen really are concerned about safety and health, to direct the present inspectors to do their respective jobs?

Wouldn't it be better, if they have slum landlords, for the tenants to deal with them directly on a one-on-one basis, instead of imposing hardships such as $25 inspection fees, etc., on all the other good people of the city?

I urge all the residents to call their aldermen and let them know that they don't need inspectors and inspections, and urge them to vote this silly Home Occupancy Code down.

Let them know you want the streets and alleys cleaned up first. Then maybe they can go on to bigger and better things.

World conquest still goal of Reds

To the editor: Communism is generally represented as a philosophy to which those who direct this international movement are deeply committed.

And yet among my friends, Party members of today, there is none that believes in Communism." — Col. Oleg Penkovsky.

So spoke a Soviet army officer and a Soviet diplomat, echoing the words of a long line of previous defectors from Iron Curtain countries.

"Communism," that Communism in which few, if any, important Communists believe, is supposed to be that body of pseudo-scientific thesis-antithesis-synthesis notions.

The latter was the alleged vehicle whereby mankind's ultimate utopia, Communism, was to emerge as history's fifth and final stage from the bourgeoisie-proletariat conflict.

This Marx had synthesized. This his prophet Lenin — driven by his hatred of God and man by the execution of his revolutionary brother, Alexander — seized upon as his justification for absolute power.

But this body of dogma is not really "Communism." Communism is nothing more than the most effective means yet devised for gaining and maintaining absolute power. For example, this is the reality of Communism: the nobles of Czarist days would have envied.

While doing so, it uses the Marxian "Communism" — in which it does not believe — in order to justify its existence. And among the central Committees for the Defense of the Revolution in Castro's Cuba, the Sandinista Defense Committees in Nicaragua.

• An agriculture collectivized so that the independent-minded farmer can be kept under strict state control.

• Industries and unions which the Party runs to insure a tight rein over management and labor serfs.

• Public information and education run by the Party as instruments of serf control.

This is Communism. Its chief reason for existence today is the protection which it affords to the now almost 70-year-old aristocracy of Communism.

Milovan Djilas was one of Communism's international heretics who broke with the movement. In his book, "The New Class," he puts this succinctly:

"Whenever Communists come to power, their assault on private ownership creates the illusion that their measures are primarily directed against the 'ownership classes' for the benefit of the working class. Subsequent events prove that their measures were not taken for this purpose but in order to establish their own ownership."

Or, as former Nicaraguan Foreign Minister Heriberto Bodan Shields says in his book, "Nicaragua: Theater of the Absurd" (Costa Rica, 1985):

"There go the Sandinistas in our Mercedes Benz."

This aristocracy of Communism shops at special stores, sends its children to special schools, and generally comports itself in a fashion — the nobles of Czarist days would have envied.

While doing so, it uses the Marxian "Communism" — in which it does not believe — in order to justify its existence. And among the central tenets of this "Communism" are the inevitability of Communist world conquest and the duty of all Communists to advance this conquest.

During the nearly 70 years since Lenin's little band of revolutionaries seized power in Russia, the continually shrinking Free World has devoted much of its time to attempts at rationalizing away the reality of the Communist drive for world conquest. However, the movement, under leaders from Lenin to Gorbachev, has remained unwaveringly dedicated to that goal.

In sum, Communism, the ultimate method for serf control, exists in order to guarantee the existence of its own aristocracy.

Since world conquest is at the very heart of the creed by which this aristocracy clings to exist, its devotion to such conquest is and must continue to be complete.

All of which renders current Free World preoccupation with Soviet peace negotiations simply bizarre.

The organization for Communist world conquest was set up by Lenin in 1919. It has gone through several reorganizations during the intervening years. But its objectives have never changed.

County raises fees for landfills, haulers

The Madison County Board on Dec. 17 increased license fees for commercial users of the county's "free" non-municipal landfills and established a per truckload "tipping" fee.

The proceeds will be used to fund a county enforcement operation, state environmental protection agency rules regarding landfills.

A few board members expressed concern that residential customers of trash haulers will end up paying the increased fees.

Nonetheless, in the face of a flood of Missouri trash currently being dumped in Illinois, the fee increases and tipping fee were passed unanimously.

The board voted to increase the yearly license fee for the county's three non-municipal landfills from $900 to $500.

Licenses for trucks carrying waste to the landfills were increased from a total of $15 per truck per year to $50 per truck per year.

The yearly fee for landfills is effective Jan. 1. The truck fees will take effect when new stickers are due July 1.

The county will charge haulers a 22½-cent per cubic yard tipping fee for trash dumped in the landfills. Haulers will be paying that in addition to a 45-cent per cubic yard fee the state will impose Jan. 1.

The board's environmental control committee chairman, Dick Worthen, Atton, said the fees will be used in the short term for training someone to inspect the landfills.

In the future, he said, the funds could be used for solid waste management planning and possibly in cases of environmental disasters.

The county tipping fee, Worthen said, can also be used as matching funds so that the county can get some of the state's 45-cent charge.

Board Member Bill Haine, Atton, said he feared that trash haulers would merely pass on the increases and tipping fees to municipalities when current hauling contracts expire.

"I have no problem with regulating landfills," Haine said. "It looks as if we're cutting a 'fat hog' for Christmas. But the cost of the fees is going to be borne by our own people. Our own people are getting caught in the net," he said.

Board Member Bob Stille, Edwardsville, who also serves on the environmental committee, said the group had figures which indicated the increased costs would amount to about six cents per pickup.

Worthen said later that cities will be informed on this so that haulers cannot use the county fees as a reason for high fee increases.

During the meeting, he said the increases were needed also because it is so much less expensive for haulers from other areas to dump trash in Madison County.

He said it costs $2 per yard less to dump refuse in Madison County than in St. Louis. The result, he said, is that more Missouri trash is dumped here than local trash.

"Of all the trucks doing business here, we have now licensed 146 trucks based here and 364 based in Missouri," Worthen said.

He said his committee has been working closely with its counterpart in St. Clair County. St. Clair is also increasing fees Jan. 1.

He said the ordinances needed to be approved Dec. 17 so that Madison County would not be less expensive than St. Clair for haulers. That, he said, would lead to an increase of St. Clair County-generated trash being dumped here in January.

Worthen indicated future waste management in the county will involve allowing another landfill to be set up.

He said it appears the Barton Landfill near Edwardsville will be filled in a couple of years. The Chouteau Island landfill will probably last another 20 years, he said.

The county board last month approved a motion that allows it to enforce state EPA rules on landfills.

DIABETIC FOOT CARE

Foot problems are more serious for the diabetic. The small blood vessels of the feet make any circulation problems more troublesome. Diabetics should get regular podiatric care, even for minor foot problems.

Areas of redness, signs of irritation, small wounds that do not heal, painful burning, numbness or tingling of the toes, and muscle weakness — all are problems to discuss with the podiatrist. Corns and calluses should be treated professionally. Do-it-yourself surgery can be dangerous! Regularly scheduled treatments help prevent or resolve infections and keep feet healthy. Prescribed molded shoes can relieve pressure on painful areas of foot to provide more foot comfort.

Liability shield for charity boards

New laws effective Jan. 1 include measures which will affect charitable organizations, services for the disabled, and alcohol-related crimes, according to Illinois Secretary of State Jim Edgar.

The new General Not-for-Profit Corporation Act of 1986 (SB 1320) completely revises a 43-year-old law governing many charitable groups.

A key provision of the new act protects not-for-profit corporation board members from liability if they serve without compensation.

The change will help organizations recruit volunteer leaders.

"We found we could help many charitable causes, and encourage volunteers, by rewriting the old act," Edgar said.

"We think this will help many worthy causes attract top talent by freeing boards of directors of some legal worries."

The revised law was the product of an advisory committee which includes leaders of Illinois charities.

Also taking effect Jan. 1: Three laws involving alcohol-related crime.

House Bill 2738 makes several technical and procedural changes in the law, adopted last year, which established automatic suspension for DUI (driving under the influence) offenders.

Changes effective Jan. 1 reduce paperwork and streamline administrative procedures.

Other changes which have taken effect include an increase to $30 from $5 in the fine that counties can assess for DUI. The increase is to assist local governments which have had an increased workload because of the DUI law.

Senate Bills 1576 and 1577 make it a Class C misdemeanor if an adult knowingly rents a hotel room for a party for underage drinkers. The penalty for a Class C misdemeanor is up to 30 days in jail and a $500 fine.

These bills were among several aimed at stopping teenage drinking-and-driving.

A law authorizing a centralized system of information about special services for the disabled, SB 2035 permits the State Library to establish pilot programs in which it and other regional libraries could give the disabled and their families computerized information about special educational, social and medical services.

Improved securities law enforcement. Investigators of securities fraud will have a new weapon — interstate subpoena power.

SB 322, will make it more difficult for unscrupulous securities dealers to avoid detection by crossing state borders.

The law will be especially helpful to investigators in Illinois and Missouri, since Missouri passed a similar reciprocal subpoena bill, Edgar said. He recently joined with Missouri officials to create an Illinois-Missouri Securities Fraud Task-Force to focus on fraudulent activity involving both states.

A law encouraging organ donation, SB 233 requires hospital personnel to ask a deceased patient's next-of-kin to permit organ donation.

"The law makes it even more important to sign the organ donor card on the back of every driving license, so relatives can be aware of a dying patient's wishes when a physician asks," Edgar said.

Amendments to the Business Corporations Act of 1983, SB 1838 makes several minor changes in the 1983 act which modernized Illinois business laws.

Corn, soy prices at 10-year low

SPRINGFIELD — November's corn and soybean prices dropped to their lowest levels in a decade, further evidence that recession still grips Illinois agriculture, state Comptroller Roland W. Burris has reported.

In his monthly report on the state's fiscal condition, Burris noted that decreased farmland values, coupled with low crop prices, have created a recessionary domino effect on agriculture and related industries.

Although corn and soybean yields in 1986 were excellent, prices for grain continued to fall. Illinois farmers this year harvested 1.421 billion bushels of corn and 346 million bushels of soybeans, making 1986 the fourth-best yield year in the last decade.

However, even though this year's harvest was smaller than last year's, prices continued to plummet.

November 1986 corn prices were $1.45 a bushel, compared to $2.24 a year earlier. Similarly, soybean prices at $4.80 a bushel were 25 cents lower than the November 1985 level. Burris attributed the low grain prices to a combination of last year's record harvest, which caused large surpluses of grain, and a reduction in federal price support levels.

But falling grain prices represent just one of several threats to Illinois farmers, Burris said. A continued decline in farmland values, which reduces farmers' collateral to secure operating loans, has pinched many family farmers.

While lower interest rates and oil prices have eased some of the farm burden, a state Department of Agriculture survey in late 1985 showed 18.2 percent of Illinois farmers had debt-to-asset ratios of between 40 and 69 percent and another 11.2 percent had debt-to-asset ratios in excess of 69 percent.

The continued farm recession has had a major impact on the farm machinery industry in Illinois, Burris said.

While crop prices continued to drop, livestock producers are enjoying relative stability. Lower feed prices have helped increase the November 1986 hog price to $52.20 per hundredweight, a $9.10 increase from a year before.

The November 1986 hundredweight price of $39.70 for steers and heifers was $1.70 lower than a year before, in part because of increased supplies resulting from dairy herd reductions. However, the declining size of the entire U.S. beef herd projects rising future beef prices.

Only slight changes in statetax form

No major changes face Illinois taxpayers as they prepare to fill out their 1986 state income tax returns. Illinois Department of Revenue Director J. Thomas Johnson said, "After the extensive changes pending in the federal income tax system, many people are probably relieved that their Illinois IL-1040 remains a simple, uncomplicated return."

"Illinois still has an almost flat 2.5 percent individual income tax. Taxpayers won't have to do anything different this year when calculating their state income taxes."

There are two changes on the 1986 IL-1040 but they have no effect on a person's tax liability. There is a special red box, located directly underneath the "name and address" section, requesting tax-

Sheepdog here herds sheep through instinct

Jessica Lynn Reeves, a registered Shetland sheepdog owned by Lisa and Michael Reeves of 11 Bradley, has passed an official herding instinct test with flying colors. The Godfrey event, sponsored by the Bi-State Belgian Tervuren Club was held Dec. 28.

Jessica, a Granite City house pet, had her first opportunity to confront live sheep when put up to be evaluated by Pat Morgan, an official all-breed herding instinct tester from Mayville, Mich. As an untrained dog, Jessica could only draw upon the instincts that produced the sheep-herding dogs of the Shetland Islands.

After entering the ring and facing several sheep, she slipped easily into the ancient working style that made these diminutive stockdogs so prized by the shepherds, officials said.

In addition to her natural ability to gather and hold a flock, Jessica showed "power" over the sheep that allowed her to instantly command the respect of animals several times her size.

"This power teamed up with herding instincts sets potential stock dog champions into a special category of prized stockdogs," Dorothy English of the Bi-State Club said.

payors to list the name of their local school district, and to enter a special 4-digit school code. The code numbers — which are not the same as regular school district numbers — are listed in the IL-1040 instructions.

State school officials have requested this demographic information so they can make informed decisions about the state's schools, Johnson said. The school district information will not affect a person's tax liability, nor will it affect refunds.

The second change involves charitable contributions, or "checkoffs."

Three of the charitable funds were dropped from the tax form because they did not generate at least $100,000 in contributions last year. State law says any fund which collects less than that amount will be taken off the tax return.

The three former funds, and the amount of their 1986 contributions, were: the Quincy Veterans Home Fund, $68,400; the Food and Housing Assistance Fund, $79,000; and the Mental Health Education Fund, $56,300.

Three charitable checkoffs remain on the 1986 return: the Illinois Non-Game Wildlife Fund, $171,100; the Child Abuse Prevention Fund, $239,800; and the Alzheimer's Disease Research Fund, $124,700.

Each taxpayer due a refund may contribute from $1 to $10 to any of the funds; the maximum contribution for a couple filing jointly and contributing to each fund, would be $60.

Contributing to a charitable checkoff will reduce the amount of refund.

Taxpayers who need additional forms, have questions, or need assistance with their IL-1040 returns may call the Department of Revenue toll-free from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. weekdays at 1-800-732-8866.

Acclaimed Metro East artists to be featured

Dancer Archie Savage, Nelson Wu, painter, calligrapher and world-renowned writer, and classical pianist Ruth Slenczynska are considered some of the most talented in their art fields: three artists, three disciplines and three different backgrounds, and yet they share common threads — a lifetime of achievement, a devotion to their art, and a source of inspiration for the next generation.

Seventy-two-year-old Savage, 67-year-old Wu and 62-year-old Slenczynska all chose St. Louis or Metro East as the area in which to pass on their legacies.

Living Treasures, a 30-minute documentary produced by KETC/Channel 9 and broadcast Monday, Jan. 12, at 9:30 p.m. and Sunday, Jan. 25, at 3:30 p.m., explores the lives and contributions of these senior artists — using archival film, clips and photos, interviews with the artists and their students, and footage of them teaching and practicing their crafts.

"I enjoyed giving to others what I have learned of and what I have gathered up through the years as a performer, and that is the reason I teach," says Savage.

What he teaches students at Katharine Dunham's School in East St. Louis comes from his years-on-Broadway and in films as a dancer and choreographer.

He choreographed the all-black film musical "Cabin in the Sky" with Lena Horne and Ethel Waters, danced with the Cotton Club girls of Harlem, danced on Broadway in "Rainbow and Show," and "South Pacific," owned his own dance company, and made countless films with directors including Fellini and Minsky.

Savage moved to East St. Louis from Italy at Dunham's request. "Technique is a way of life," he says. "If you do not get it from the gut, from the inside, the soul — then you haven't got it."

Wu advises his students before they begin an art project, "Feel that you are going to enjoy it before you try it."

Born in Peking in 1919, he walked the face of war-torn China in his teens. From that experience he wrote his first novel, Song Never to End, but waited 14 years before submitting it for publication because he feared it wasn't good enough. Wu, retired after 18 years as a professor at Washington University, is regarded as one of the most popular writers in the Chinese language and one of the foremost authorities on Chinese art.

Slenczynska, artist-in-residence at SIUE, recalls that when she was born, her father "looked at my little hands when I was just a few hours old and he told (my mother) right then, 'this is a musician — the hands are ripe.'"

It wasn't long before she fulfilled her father's prophecy. One of the world's top child prodigies, she had her first recital at age 4, her Berlin debut at age 5, her Paris debut at 7, and took the world by storm at age 8 when she was tapped to replace Sergei Rachmaninoff at a concert.

When he met her, she recalls, he said, "You mean that plays the piano?" She later became his student, and one of the few child prodigies to make the transition to adult performer.

Living Treasures was written, produced and edited by Carl Battaglia. Narrator is Robin Thomas and videographers are Greg Forrest and Clayton Marlow.

Reservation deadline near for Dr. King SIUE event

Next Tuesday, Jan. 13, 1987, will be the fifth time that SIUE has observed a major celebration of the birthday of the late Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. The reservation deadline is Jan. 9.

The first such observance of the King birthday on the SIUE campus, Jan. 14, 1983, was sponsored by the Office of the President of the Student Programming Board and the Central Affirmative Action Office. Samuel D. Proctor, the Martin Luther King Memorial Chair professor at the Rutgers University Graduate School of Education, was the keynote speaker.

The 1984 celebration featured the Rev. Dr. Joseph E. Lowery, president of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, and in 1985 State Sen. Richard H. Newhouse presented the major address.

Former U.S. Rep. Shirley Chisholm spoke in January 1986, suggesting that people in the 1980s are unlike those in the era of the civil rights movement of the 1960s: "Today we're like Rip Van Winkle, and we're fast asleep. We sit paralyzed with our tongues plugged. We don't begin to move until our own front doorstep is attacked."

Martin Luther King III will be the keynote speaker for the 1987 observance, a luncheon beginning at 11:30 a.m. in Meridian Ballroom of the University Center.

Also featured will be the Unity Theater Ensemble in conjunction with dancers from the Katharine Dunham Center for the Performing Arts at SIUE East St. Louis Center. The Ensemble has played a major part in the program of several past celebrations. Theme of this year's observance is "Living the Dream: Peace with Justice."

Reservations for the King luncheon are on a first-come, first-served basis and may be made by calling 692-2660 or writing Conferences and Institutes, Box 1036, SIUE, Edwardsville 62026-1036. Luncheon reservations will be confirmed only if payment is received by Jan. 9.

Earl Lazerson, president of SIUE, stresses the legacy of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. "We now know, if we have not recognized it in the past, now so long ago, we are not actively engaged in the pursuit of genuine freedom of opportunity for all, we are ourselves prisoners in an immoral, unjust, and oppressive society. It is our own making. Great minds have understood this truth since the dawn of civilization. Dr. King understood this with overpowering clarity. It must not remain a mystery to any of us in the late 20th century."

Senator at home following surgery

State Sen. Sam M. Vadalabene, D-Edwardsville, is convalescing at home following multiple heart bypass surgery at Missouri Baptist Hospital in St. Louis.

Vadalabene said he is not allowed visitors "until I get my strength back and am a little more rested."

Vadalabene, who won re-election to the state senate in an uncontested race in November, will be sworn in Jan. 14, marking his 20th year in the General Assembly.

Put on probation for GC robbery

Jeffrey F. Pointer, 20, of 2251 Iowa St., pleaded guilty and was sentenced Dec. 8 on a robbery charge. Pointer was sentenced to two years of probation and ordered to pay $95 court costs by Madison County Circuit Judge Charles Chapman. Pointer was charged July 2 by Granite City authorities after Victoria Dubay, owner of the Lone Acres Tavern, was robbed at 7:22 a.m. June 30. Dubay was unlocking the back door of the tavern, at 2413 E. 20th St., when Pointer knocked her to the ground and took $1,000 in cash, which was in a paper bag. He also made away with her purse.

THIEF TAKES MONEY FROM WALLETS OF STORE WORKERS
A thief entered an employees' room Jan. 3 at Fashion Gal, 3801 Nameoki Road, taking 3 cents and a wallet, containing a driving license and personal papers, from a purse owned by Heather Kass, 3 Roxbury Court. Vickie Price, 110 Briarhaven Drive, said her wallet also was taken; it contained $60 in cash, a $25 check and papers. Jackie Linhart, 2141 Aubrey Ave., reported $8 was taken from her wallet. Julie Sutton of rural Granite City said her wallet, containing $38 and personal papers, was also taken.

DRIVER INJURED IN CRASH ON MARVILLE AT LYNCH
Amy M. Verdu, 17, of 27 Arlington Drive, sustained an injury at 3:35 p.m. Jan. 2 when her auto was involved in an accident with a vehicle operated by Ernest L. Morris, 26, of 2940 Adams St. Both autos were southbound on Marville Road and Morris had stopped his car to make a left turn onto Lynch Avenue. Verdu was ticketed for failure to reduce speed to avoid an accident.

2 WARRANTS SERVED IN GC
Mark E. Hartman, 27, of 3340 Red Bud Ave., on Jan. 2 was served two warrants, which alleged driving while his license was suspended and not having a valid registration. He was released after posting $102 cash bail.

CONDUCT CHARGE FILED AFTER DISTURBANCE ENDS
Sent to a reported fight in the 2100 block of Bryan Avenue at 11:45 p.m. Jan. 2, officers learned some of those involved had left the area. They advised those remaining to quiet down, get into their cars and leave.

Joseph L. Tervasi, 17, of 2645 E. 27th St., allegedly began leaning out of a car window and yelling in a loud voice. He was charged with disorderly conduct and later was released on a notice to appear for a hearing.

AUTO HITS UTILITY POLE
Scott A. Harris, 19, of 2464 Iowa St. was taken by his father to St. Elizabeth Medical Center after his auto struck an Illinois Power Co. utility pole in front of 2825 Madison Ave. at 1:08 p.m. Jan. 3. Harris was northbound on Madison when another car forced him off the roadway and against the post.

ALCOHOL CHARGES FILED
Thomas A. Skillington, 24, of St. Charles, Mo., was charged by Granite City police at 10 p.m. Jan. 4 with driving under the influence and illegal transportation of alcohol after he drove his car into a yard at 3126 W. 20th St. Officers alleged finding a can and bottle of beer in Skillington's auto. He was released after posting $302 cash bail.

CHARGED IN WOOD RIVER
Wayne Graham, 24, of 627 Fleming St., Mitchell, was charged Jan. 4 with driving under the influence of alcohol and improper lane usage by Wood River authorities. Graham was arrested at Illinois 111 and Hawthorne Avenue in Wood River.

ASSAULT WARRANT SERVED
Eddie A. Meyers, 39, of 1751 Chestnut St., was served a warrant Jan. 3 alleging assault. He was released on a notice to appear at a hearing.

WOMAN STRUCK, KICKED
Jerome Jackson, 29, of 1917 Edwardsville Road, Madison, was arrested at his home and booked for battery after he allegedly hit and kicked Karen Johnson of Edwardsville Road at 1:34 a.m. Jan. 4. He was released on $102 cash bail.

BOOKED ON HITTING OFFICER
Robert Gene Steiner, 21, of 2338 Edwards St., was arrested in an alley at 1415 Fifth St., Madison, at 1:44 a.m. Jan. 1 and booked for battery. Force was used to take him to the police station, and he was released later on $102 cash bail.

PARKED CAR IS DAMAGED
William Garrison, 4010 Braden Ave., found the left side mirror and outside radio antenna broken and three dents on the left door of his auto. It had been parked in the 1400 block of Fourth Street, Madison, Jan. 4. The damage was estimated at $250.

ALLEGED LICENSE SUSPENDED
Jesus Mendez, 27, of 2909 State St., was stopped in the 1500 block of 12th Street, Madison, at 10:30 a.m. Jan. 3 and charged with driving while his license was suspended. He posted $102 cash bail.

Eagle Park man shot in leg Sunday

An Eagle Park man was listed in satisfactory condition Monday after he was shot in the right leg early Sunday.

John Williams II, 23, of 213 Hare St., was shot outside Blake Lounge, 217 Roosevelt Drive, at 2:10 a.m. Sunday with a .38-caliber pistol. He was struck below his right knee.

He was taken to St. Elizabeth Medical Center, where he underwent surgery at 9 a.m. Sunday.

Williams said he was walking near the tavern on Watson Street when he stopped to get his cigarette lighted by a friend.

A man exited the tavern, Williams said, and asked Williams if he had set fire to some trash barrels that were in front of the tavern. After Williams told him he was not responsible for the fire, the man began shooting, Williams said.

After running to a neighbor's house, Williams called for police and an ambulance.

Madison County authorities said they were told Williams was inside the tavern and was asked to leave; outside the tavern, a man again asked Williams to leave before shooting him.

Williams said he had been at the tavern three hours earlier, but the man who shot him was not there at that time.

The man blamed for the shooting told police Williams knew he was not allowed in the tavern. The man said he would not mean to shoot Williams when he fired the gun.

Williams said he and the man had been having problems since 1984.

East St. Louis man charged with murder

VENICE—Mozell Fort, 30, of 2714 Bond Ave., East St. Louis, was arrested without incident at 4:35 p.m. Tuesday on two counts of murder and one count of armed violence.

Fort is accused of shooting Charles Smith, 31, of St. Louis, in the abdomen about 3:30 a.m. Jan. 1 during an argument at the Venice Gas & Oil Co., 1109 S. Fourth St.

Mr. Smith died at 3 a.m. Jan. 3 in the critical care unit at St. Elizabeth Medical Center.

Fort is employed as an attendant at the Venice Gas & Oil and was at the service station when taken into custody by Venice officers on an information signed by Madison County Sheriff's Attorney Dick Allen.

The document set bond at $200,000 and Fort was scheduled for transfer Wednesday to the Madison County jail at Edwardsville.

Fort was arrested initially at the scene and a felony charge of aggravated battery was filed against him in the state's attorney's office.

He was released on a $10,000 bond ($1,000 cash bail) and a $5,000 recognizance bond, a court spokesman said.

The aggravated battery charge was dismissed when the other charges were filed.

Council

Two scout councils could be united retiring Feb. 28 as Cahokia Mound Council scout executive.

Monical said original plans called for council consolidation to be the topic of special meetings in each of the three districts, Unwan (Quad-City Area), Illini (Collinsville-Edwardsville) and Kickapoo (Highland-Greenville areas).

However, Monical said Tuesday, instead there will be informal talks by the council president at as many regular district gatherings as he can fit into his schedule this month.

Monical and Carl Wetzel, Edwardsville, the Cahokia Mound Council president, said consolidation differs from merger of one council into another.

A STUDY COMMITTEE said it gave unanimous support to the concept of consolidation, as opposed to merger.

Monical said the three Cahokia Mound committee members voted 1-1, with one abstaining, on whether the council should remain as it is or whether it should be consolidated.

Although the Cahokia Mound area scouts would have about equal representation with Alton area scouts in a new council, the headquarters would move to Piasa Bird's office in Wood River.

Scouting coordinators (formerly known as assistant representatives) have the majority voice in deciding whether the council will be consolidated.

The vote, exceeded by at least one the number of council members-at-large. Since there are fewer than normal at-large members, Monical said, the coordinators' viewpoint will be decisive.

A COORDINATOR is chosen by each institution, such as a church or parent-teacher group, that sponsors a scout unit.

The consolidation vote is to be taken at a dinner meeting at 6:30 p.m. Tuesday, Jan. 27, at Randy's Restaurant in Troy. Cost of the dinner is $6.50. The reservation deadline at 876-0686 is noon Jan. 23.

Wetzel said, "The executive board voted at its December meeting to take before the entire council a proposal to consolidate and form an entirely new council."

"The financial position of the council for several years has been tenuous," Wetzel said.

"WE CAN'T EVEN afford a modern council service center. I'm sure you will agree the present center at 2016 Delmar Ave. does not do much for the image of the Boy Scouts of America."

"On the other hand, the present campsite at Camp Samen is one of the best camps any boy could have to attend. It is nature at its best."

"The position of our neighbors to the north is almost the exact opposite (poor camp but a good office) and, with the economy being the way it is, donated funds are increasingly harder to come by."

"WE BASICALLY have an opportunity to put Boy Scouting in the area in much better financial shape and at the same time, stay with the tradition of camping and training our young people in the ways of the Scout Law."

He said the dinner will allow "time for discussion, positive or negative, before the matter comes to a vote" that night.

Wetzel said the consolidation study committee was chaired by Joseph Millard, Belleville, with Clifford Korte of Highland.

CAHOKIA MOUND members were Mary Tarpoff of Granite City, Jack Vance of Edwardsville and Ralph Korte of Highland.

"The Piasa Bird Council is headed by L. Allen Klope of Alton. That council was represented on the study panel by Robert Roberts III of Alton, Richard Thompson of Alton and Dean Sweet of Wood River."

In a five-hour meeting Nov. 1, the committee evaluated administration, personnel, programs, camping and legal factors, based on reports prepared earlier by subcommittees.

TEN POSITIVES and five negatives of consolidation were listed by the committee in its report to Wetzel and Klope.

Positives were "lower operating costs," will attract new volunteer leaders, attract new professional leaders, improved long-term camp facilities, improved corporate funding capabilities, improved service center, improved Boy Scout image, improved overall program presentation, improved staff morale and improved trust fund."

Negatives were "loss of tradition, age-old political problems, temporary loss of some sustaining member enrollment funding, temporary loss of morale and temporary disruption in service facilities."

THE COMMITTEE said, "All of the positives and negatives were handled with two merger assumptions, the first assumption being that the Cahokia Mound Council office would be in the Piasa Bird office would be the new service center."

"Secondly, the two camps would be changed from both being long-term to Camp Samen being used as the sole long-range camping program. Camp Warren Lewis would be sold in its entirety, or greatly reduced in size through sale, and used solely as a day camp facility for the consolidated council."

"This sale would generate funds for improvement of both camps, with the balance to be used to fund the new consolidated trust fund."

It is felt strongly that neither council be the dominant partner; that it be a consolidation of equals."

CARL GRAHAM donated funds that later were used to purchase the council office in Granite City, Monical said. The late downtown Granite City bookstore owner was this area's original assistant scoutmaster and was one of the council's founders.

Camp Samen, near Potosi, Mo., was decided over to the Cahokia Mound Council by Joseph Samen following negotiations between him and the late Henry D. Karadjeff of Granite City.

Under terms of the gift, it must continue to be used as a Boy Scout camp or it will result in the ownership of the Samen family.

RESPONDING to letters by scouts saying they were being told little or nothing about the consolidation plan, Wetzel said, "There is no secret movement under way to destroy a part of (your) lifestyle."

It is the function of the executive board to see that there are sufficient funds available to in fact continue the Boy Scout movement.

The executive board voted to appoint a study group at its meeting in August. The reason for the study was prompted by the strained financial position of the two corporations.

"AT THE ANNUAL council meeting in November the final report from the study group had not yet been reported to the executive board. Therefore, there were no specifics to be reported on, but the fact that the study was being made was reported."

"Geographically, the two councils would be the smallest council in Area 5."

"The sale of certain other physical assets would not only cut operating expenses, but create a large amount of money to be put into an interest-bearing trust fund. The interest from this is to be used for annual operating expenses."

"THIS LOOKS like a way of doing something to ensure the future of Boy Scouting in this area for many years to come," Wetzel said.

Monical said he will continue to live here and will remain in Boy Scouting as a volunteer.

His early retirement opportunity is part of a program being offered to hundreds of scout executives nationally, he said.

Under scouting rules, a consolidated council cannot be led by the executive of any of the councils forming the new council.

It can be a time for sharing and support.

After the loss of a loved one, many people question the need for a funeral. Funerals provide an opportunity for the living to come together to share memories, pay respects and establish a network of support for coping with the grieving process. DON BELLMAN with his 1949 Chevy pickup and the trophy he won at the 26th Annual International Championship Auto Show at the Cervantes Convention Center last weekend.

GC man's truck takes first in Auto Show

By Dave Whaley
Staff writer

GRANITE CITY — There is more than just personal satisfaction out of tinkering with old cars. Just ask Don Bellman.

Bellman, 39, bought a 1949 Chevrolet pickup truck three years for $1,000, and today he has a machine he wouldn't sell for less than $10,000. And last weekend, the truck took first place in the Conservative Early Pickup category of the 26th Annual International Championship Auto Show at the Cervantes Convention Center in St. Louis.

"The truck's not really for sale," said Bellman, who works for Illinois Power in Granite City. "But if it was, I think the bottom price I would put on it would be $10,000. And I mentioned that at the show last week and somebody said that would be underpriced."

Bellman purchased the antique in April 1984 from Jamie Short of House Springs, Mo., after seeing an ad in Trading Times magazine.

"When I brought it home, it just had a cab frame and running gear," Bellman said. "I cut that frame off and added a 1971 Trans Am subframe and a Pontiac 330 engine, plus a Turbo 400 automatic transmission."

Bellman said there are parts from around 10 different automobiles now in use on his truck. And although it's a 1949 model, it's now ultramodern, with power steering, brakes and windows, electric doors and a tilt column steering wheel.

Bellman had a 1937 Dodge fully restored a few years ago and won first place at virtually every show he entered it in.

"I've had a lot of other cars I've played with, but I never entered them," he said. "I've always had an interest in cars. I've been working with them since I was a kid."

Counting the initial purchase price, Bellman estimates he has probably spent less than $5,000 on the truck. He has parts from a 1971 Cadillac (seats), a 1969 Chevelle (gauges), a 1974 Cutlass (rear suspension) and a 1949 Plymouth (rear bumpers), just to mention a few.

There were five other cars competing in Bellman's category in St. Louis. But he said this could be the last show he enters it in.

"I think when you have something like this, you either have it for fun or for showing," he said. "And I have used it quite a bit. I've put over 600 miles on it in the past two months. My 3-year-old daughter likes it better than the Cutlass we have. And my German Shepherd has been in it, too."

Bellman wanted to thank all the people who helped him with the truck over the years, particularly John Mark Lerch. And it's been quite an effort getting the car in shape.

"I spent several hours with my New Year's Eve and New Year's Day, working on the undercarriage and keeping it clean," he said. "I've got new upholstery and everything."

"I've put some time into it. If I sold it for that $10,000 price, it would probably come out to about $2 an hour for me."

Girls

And what Collinsville showed the Warriors was what happens when one team sticks to their game plan and the other doesn't. Throughout the game, the Kahoks pushed the ball into offensively to their front line trio of Alexis Yuss, Vicki Semanish and Lisa LeCuyer. The result was positive, as the three combined for 35 of their squad's points.

And then there was the flip side of the coin.

Granite City's frontliners — Maria Toeniskoetter, Beth Earnney and Wendy Knollman — seldom got to touch the ball in shooting situations. And when they would get their hands on the ball, it was often at the top of the key, an area which Hutchings said they had no reason to be roaming near.

The result was a combined total of eight points from the group. Regarding his team's failure to get the good shot underneath, Hutchings agreed with the logic of one Warrior fan, who suggested from his bleacher seat that Granite City try to move the ball inside since "the 30-footer just wasn't working."

"It seemed like everybody wanted to be a guard out there tonight," the Warrior coach said. "The girls just kept hanging out around the top of the paint like that's where our offense could be run most effectively. When we went inside, good things happened. But as the scoreboard indicates, we didn't do down there quite often enough."

Indeed they didn't. For the game, Granite City was 11 of 43 (26 percent) from the field.

Defensively, the Kahoks threw a blowout-sized monkey wrench into Granite City's already ailing offensive scheme, constantly harassing the Warrior guards with a not-as-tenacious-as-it-appeared full court press.

What resulted were numerous sloppy turnovers and a basic look of bewilderment on Warrior faces.

"And you know what?" Hutchings inquired when asked about Collinsville's defensive play. "I think that might have been the steepest, most inconsistent press we've seen all year. But we just couldn't get through it for some reason."

And even when they did, they were often frustrated on the other side of the midcourt stripe, where Yuss guarded Granite City's high-scoring freshman, Kim Pawlak, who finished with only seven points.

"We didn't have anybody to pick up the slack," Hutchings said. "After Kim hit her first shot, I told the girls she wouldn't get any more free ones like that. And she didn't. Unfortunately, no one else was able to score for us very well either."

And the result of the Warriors' inability to put the ball in the net was falling behind early, never to make anything close to a resurrection for the remainder of the game.

After being outscored 12-7 in the first quarter, Granite City was blasted 18-5 in the second quarter and 15-7 in the third. The Warriors' best quarter was the fourth, when they were only outscored 15-12.

"Our shooting game was really cold," said Hutchings. "I just hope it improves soon, because we've got some awfully big games still ahead of us over the next few days."

Terri Selph also scored seven points against Collinsville. No other Warrior players scored more than five.

NOTES: The Warriors fell to 2-10 on Wednesday night, losing to East St. Louis 73-37 at home. Pawlak dropped in 10 points and Toeniskoetter added 7. Granite City hosts Belleville East tonight.

Weight training for football held at GCHS

Winter weight training for those interested in playing football next year has begun, varsity coach Ron Yates announced. Open lifting will be held on Mondays and Wednesdays at the high school weight room. All interested parties are urged to attend.

Hunters take record number of '86 deer

Illinois deer hunters killed a record 36,059 whitetail during the 1986 firearm season, wildlife biologists said following the second half of the season. Hunters took 9,200 deer hunting the three-day December firearm hunt.

The total exceeded last year's deer kill by 4,370. Forrest Loomis, head of the deer program for the Department of Conservation, said, "We expected more deer to be taken during the second half, but cold weather in the northern half of the state kept a lot of hunters home that weekend."

Pike County led the state, with 1,491 deer taken. Madison County totaled 140 (101 and then 39). More than 93,000 firearm deer permits were issued for the 1986 hunt; more than one of every three hunters bagged a white-tailed deer. One hunter fatality was reported in Pike County during the second half of the firearm hunting season.

vacated spot. Lynch, a senior, has an 11-6-1 varsity record.

Moving into the 185-pound class is junior Terry Stanley. He has seen limited varsity action this year.

Another question mark is Bill Fitzgerald, 145 lbs. Stanley went to Florida over the Christmas holiday, but is nowhere to be found.

"I don't know where he is," Whitaker said. "He hasn't been back at school because he's in one of my classes."

Fitzgerald posted an 8-2-1 record before heading south. In his place, Gerald Moss will wrestle in that weight class.

Rich Smallie held down the spot at the tournament and wrestled well despite giving up the added pounds.

Whitaker indicated that Smallie might try to drop to 98 pounds.

Rule

comes the "other" team with a chance to go ahead.

With the new rule, if he misses the first, he gets another. And even if he misses them both, his team still gets to take the ball out of bounds.

Sure, it might help the team that doesn't shoot free throws very well, but that will probably only happen in the very last seconds. And again, the officials won't make just any foul an intentional one. They will use their judgment, and if a player is good enough, he can make any foul look unintentional.

If it looks like, by any stretch of the imagination, that he is going for the basketball, the referee will likely give him the benefit of the doubt.

What the new rule cuts down on is players running up to a player and grabbing him around the waist. That's not fun to watch. It also makes a player think twice about hacking a guy who is going in for an uncontested layup at any time during the game. If he wipes the guy out and the basket is still made, it could be as much as a six-point play.

Good rule.

NOTES: Venice and Madison will both participate in next week's eight-team Litchfield Mid-Winter Tournament. The Red Devils open the tournament with a 6:45 p.m. game Monday against Dupo, while the Trojans play Lincolnwood on Tuesday at 6:45 p.m. Other first round games are Taylorville vs. Hillsboro and Litchfield vs. Jerseyville. Consolation and championship semifinal games are Wednesday and Thursday.

The consolation title game and the third place game are Friday, with the title game Saturday at 7:30 p.m. There is a good chance Venice and Madison will meet in the finals, although the Devils struggled to a fourth-place finish last year. Madison took second, falling to the host school in the closing seconds. Litchfield is 50 miles to the north on Interstate 55.

trojans

three of 14 shots themselves, by Ware, Orlando McCarthy and Gary Stanley.

Madison got the lead up to 33-24 before one of the key plays of the game. Lewis broke away for what should have been a layup late in the third quarter, but he tried to dunk and missed.

"All baskets count the same," Hlatka said. "It doesn't matter if it's a 360-degree slam or a layup. It's still two points. We want them to keep their shots sweet and simple."

A three-point play by Tyrone Kiner early in the fourth quarter made it 32-29, but the Minutemen made only one more basket as the Trojans extended the lead. Ware scored on a layup after the Trojans, meanwhile, made only

Granite City Warriors

Still, he would have to beat out incumbent Todd Hutchinson for a starting spot.

Hutchinson has been a pleasant surprise for the Warriors this year. His record is 10-9 in varsity competition.

Another surprise is Dave Knogl at 155 pounds. He has logged a 13-5 record in his first full year on the varsity. Knogl, a senior, was 4-4 last year in limited action. Jon Morgan also has provided a big lift. Morgan is 9-8.

"Like some of the other guys, his record may not look that impressive, but he's given us some good matches," Whitaker said.

Senior Paul Brandt (15-3) and sophomore Brent Davis (15-4) are the big winners for the Warriors thus far this season. Rich Wilson is 14-5, Tracy Morrison is 11-3, Scott Moss is 10-6, Jim Stout is 4-4.

The Warriors have shown they have depth, having used 18 different starters this season.

"Our depth has been one of our strengths this year," Whitaker said. "We've also had pretty good balance."

Whitaker sees Granite City as an even stronger squad as the season winds down. Rich Fenoglio, a sophomore, should return later in the month and might crack the lineup.

"We could be even a stronger team," the coach said. "We just may surprise a few people by regional time."

For now, Granite City is content to take things one match at a time, starting with East. The IOU's are ready to be cashed in.

Preview

pleased with our play the second day. I hope that carries over."

Granite City was 2-2 in the tournament. The Warriors dropped the consolation championship to Springfield Southeast in double overtime.

"There were a lot of positives that came out of last week's play," Deterding said.

According to Deterding, the most noticeable was the Warriors' improvement on offense. They ran the break better and looked sharper.

The coach attributes that to senior Tim Hogan.

"He's in a tough situation," Deterding said. "We are asking him to run the offense and to score."

Right now a major concern is Granite City's lack of rebounding. Eric Ryterski did a good job of controlling the boards in the Collinsville tournament, but he had little help. Ryterski is averaging seven rebounds per game. Tom Taylor is the team leader with nine.

"The reason we are not rebounding is that we are not pursuing the ball," Deterding said. "We are standing around and waiting for things to happen."

Against the Maroons, Deterding feels the Warriors must continue to work and get good shot selection. Granite City is averaging 69.3 points per game and as a team is shooting close to 55 percent from the field.

"If we can build on what we learned and play like we did the last couple of times up at Collinsville, we will be all right," Deterding said.

New class on breastfeeding

"Breastfeeding Your Baby," a class to be offered here, is for both expectant or new mothers who have chosen breastfeeding for their baby, and who want to know more information on the subject.

- Specific topics to be covered:
- Advantages of breastfeeding.
- Suggestions for increasing success and avoiding problems.
- Basic "how to."
- Tips for mothers who need to return to work.

The date is Monday, Jan. 26, from 7 to 9 p.m., and the place is the Prenatal Classroom at the McKinley School building.

For further information and to register, the OB Department at St. Elizabeth Medical Center, Granite City, may be called at 736-3039 or 798-3040.

Fathers, supportive others and infants are also welcomed at the class.

Michelle Mayes and Steven Siemer

Michelle Lynn Mayes, daughter of Robert and Madonna Macke of Granite City, and Steven Terry Siemer, son of Catherine Siemer of Glen Carbon and the late Rudolph Siemer, have announced their engagement and forthcoming marriage.

Miss Mayes, of Madison, is a 1978 graduate of Granite City High School South and is employed by Archer Daniels Midland Co. of Pontoon Beach as a computer data entry clerk.

Her fiancé is a 1977 graduate of Edwardsville High School and is employed by Shell Oil Company of Wood River as an operating engineer.

Laureate Alpha marks year-end

Members of the Laureate Alpha Gamma Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi enjoyed a full calendar of events to mark the closing of a successful 1986 club year and to begin 1987 with a traditional get-together.

The last business meeting of the old year took place in the home of Lora Mae Lombardi in mid-December. Pat Tsigalaroff conducted a business meeting in the absence of the president, Jane Stevens, who was away from the city for the week.

Jean Forrest has been asked to conduct the Order of the Rose ritual in mid-January for another Granite City chapter of Beta Sigma Phi. The evening was spent with members singing favorite Christmas songs led by Delores Dorch.

Refreshments were served from a decorated candlelit dining room table, including German cookies made by the hostess' mother, Mrs. Floyd Coffman, from an old family recipe.

On Dec. 20, members and husbands gathered at the Elevator Restaurant in Belleville for an 8 o'clock dinner party. Present were Jack and Juanita Calve, Ralph and Arlene Haldeman, Jean and Bill Forrest, Pat and Phil Tsigalaroff, Delores Dorch and Delores Byrnes.

The next afternoon, Arlene Haldeman, who heads the chapter's service committee, invited members to her home, where they picked up their own homemade cookies for elderly friends.

Mrs. Haldeman offered desserts served from an antique Victorian table covered with a lace embroidered linen cloth, made many years ago by her late mother, Mrs. Stella Kowalewicz.

Among the deliveries of cookies that same afternoon were those taken to the Eden Village Retirement Center for residents Lucille Voyles and Mary Birmingham, the former an honorary chapter member and the latter an aunt of member Betty Ehlings, who now resides in south Texas.

Late in the afternoon on New Year's Day, Jack and Evelyn Tolliver received the chapter in their country home near Edwardsville for the group's presidential reception.

Champagne and hors d'oeuvres were served to guests upon arrival. A buffet supper was enjoyed.

In addition to those mentioned, also attending were Ed and Jane Stevens, Lewis and Norma Rains, Ruth Stoyanoff, Mrs. Harry Hartman Sr. and Dick Tolliver.

Has 4.0 GPA

Mick Shambro, a former Granite City resident, has completed the fall semester at Kentucky State University at Frankfort with a 4.0 grade point average, and is eligible for the presidential scholarship.

FIVE GENERATIONS gather for a visit with the newest addition to their family. They all reside in Granite City. From the left are Suzanne Schaefer, grandmother, Etta Whitson, great-grandmother, Edna Fresse, great-grandmother holding 5-month-old Brittany Schaefer, and the infant's father, Marine Cpl. Gregory E. Schaefer, stationed at Cherry Point, N.C.

A large group of students, likely a school choir or drama club, posing for a group photo. They are dressed in various costumes, including hats, wigs, and theatrical outfits. The students are arranged in several rows, with some standing and some sitting or kneeling in the front. The background is dark and indistinct.

FROHARDT SIXTH GRADERS perform a holiday drama entitled "The Case of the Counterfeit Santa." They also led students, parents and guests in singing yuletide songs, followed by refreshments and by awards for the top sellers in a candy sale.

The Dec. 16 Frohardt PTA meeting began with a flag presentation by Cub Scout Pack 6. President Nancy Ballew presided and reports were given by Jackie Harris.

Chairman Sandy Anderson announced the top candy sale students. Their prizes ranged from Barbie dream houses to bicycles.

The highlight of the evening was a performance of "The Case of the Counterfeit Santa," presented by sixth grade students.

Announcers of the program was Danny Peterson. Solo numbers were sung by sixth graders, including Silver Bells, Winter Wonderland, and White Christmas.

The scene of this Christmas presentation was Santa's main office on Christmas Eve. Matt Stinson

After a standing ovation, the sixth grade presented vocal music teacher Pat Micalloff with a gift and a floral arrangement.

Refreshments were served in the cafeteria by room mothers of the fourth grade class.

The award for most parents attending went to Jim Harman's sixth grade class for the third consecutive month. An ice cream party will be the pupils' prize.

WELL, GLOW!
SO THIS IS THE NEW BABY!

LET ME HOLD HIM A MINUTE!

LOOKS JUST LIKE HIS DADDY, DOESN'T HE, BROTHER BULL?

HE SURE DOES, REV JACK,
- BUT WHAT'S THE DIFFERENCE
AS LONG AS HE'S HEALTHY!
